R. H. KNAPPEN

For two decades past the voluble and belligerent Benito Mussolini led a half-willing people along the thorn-strewn trail towards a modern Roman empire. He dreamed great dreams, did Mussolini, and he saw himself in the role of Caesar.

As black as any nightmare, the reign of this mad man commenced with violence and progressed along the foul paths of infamy until he, prodded by his innate cowardice, "resigned" as dictator of Italy. Yesterday his downfall became complete with the unconditional surrender of his country to the United Nations. Perhaps he had hoped, in some way, to escape the consequences of his misdirected leadership; but the decent people of the world should have little fear that the surrender of the person of Mussloini will not be included in the term "unconditional."

Punishment meted out to the leaders of Fascist Italy should most assuredly be commensurate with their crimes. Starting, shall we say, with the rape of Ethiopia, and continuing with interference in the Spanish civil war, the knifing of a beaten France, the ruin of Greece, collaboration with the Third Reich and sundry other deviltry, the citation will be long and harsh —and it will add up to some shameful reading for Italy's future school children. Let us trust that these leaders, these arch murderers, will be dealt with as they so richly deserve, and not merely banished to some pleasant estate, there to spend the rest of their lives chopping wood. Where they belong the fires are hot—and perpetual.

With their erstwhile leaders properly manacled, the Italian people have little left to fear. Fundamentally an agricultural race, it is hard to picture the Italians, as a nation, prosecuting this or any war with much enthusiasm. Discounting the youngsters who, during the past 15 or 18 years, grew up with stilettos in their teeth, a dream of conquest in their hearts, and what appears to be an easily quenched thirst for blood, most Italians will cheerfully slip back into the peaceful ways they pursued before Mussolini and his "Black Shirts" came upon the scene.

I think it's safe to say that most of Italy's citizens are resting easier tonight than they have in many a long year —and especially since American and British fliers ceased to pound the "boot" with area and precision bombing.

It would be extremely interesting to know how the German populace will react to the news, when and if they get it. There is little doubt that the German high command had long since resigned itself to the loss of Italy as a fighting ally, and I believe she was never regarded by tht Germans as very necessary except for her nuisance value. Still, the surrender will be a crushing blow to German civilian morale, and constitutes, broadly speaking, the destruction of one-third of the Axis. It also constitutes a lesson, to those who will probably not recognize it as such, on the subject of what inevitably happens to individuals or nations whose ambitions are predicated on greed, ruthlessness, treachery and intolerance.

Surrender of one point of the Axis may also have a tendency to add to the complacency already too apparent in some quarters here. Current reports indicate the fighting isn't over in Italy, and the war — the "global" war, isn't over by a long and bitter way.

Ruth Bohrman Is Bride of Robert Lee Holder

Miss Ruth Bohrman and Robert Lee Holder, pharmacists mate, second class, United States Navy, were recently married at the Upper Room Mission in San Jose, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Herbert Johnson.

The bride was attended by here sisters Mrs. Arthur Lindvall of San Carlos and Mrs. Jack Carlson of Monte Vista. Little Joanne Carlson was the dainty little flower girl.

The groom's attendants were Warren Pine of Salida and Jack Carlson of Monte Vista.

Serving as ushers and later assisting in serving at the reception were the Misses Evelyn Johnson, Beulah Garcia, Betty Spillman and Esther Miller.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Bohrman of Hamilton avenue and the benedict is the son of Alvin Lee Holder also of Campbell.

After a brief honeymoon at Pacific Grove the groom left for San Diego where he is stationed.

Last Rites for Mrs. Meda Waite Held Tuesday

Last rites were held Tuesday afternoon from the chapel of Amos O. Williams company for Mrs. Meda L. Waite who entered into rest Friday, Sept. 3, in San Jose.

Interment was in Los Gatos cemetery.

Surviving relatives are sons Earl D. and Paul Clark, and sisters, Mrs. Winona MacLean and Mrs. Leona L. Taylor.

Mrs. Waite and her late husband, Demmon W. Waite, were residents of Campbell for many years and during part of that time Mrs. Waite served as postmaster here, preceding Mrs. Lottie Miracle. Later she lived for some years in East San Jose.

OUR DEMOCRACY——by Mat
"A CHAIN IS NO STRONGER THAN ITS WEAKEST LINK"
HUBERT MATHIEU
EACH ONE OF US IS A VITAL LINK IN THE CHAIN OF AMERICA'S STRENGTH. AS WE WORK HARDER ON FARMS, IN FACTORIES, STORES, OFFICES AND HOMES,— AS WE SAVE MORE — PUT OUR MONEY INTO WAR BONDS, LIFE INSURANCE, SAVINGS ACCOUNTS, WE MAKE OURSELVES, OUR FAMILIES, OUR NATION STRONGER,— REINFORCE THE MIGHTY CHAIN OF AMERICA'S STRENGTH.

- Items In Brief -

Julius Bachman, Greg Rice, Charles DeSelle, Brice Whitmore, Stanley DeSelle, Fred Jones and Ethan Lanphear were bass fishing all day Monday at Martinez. The largest bass, caught by Charles DeSelle, weighed 20 pounds. With absolutely no concentration or effort, Jones caught his first bass which weighed 16 pounds.

Ray Johnson is here on leave until Tuesday from Chanute Field, Utah where he is a member of the ground crew of a bomber squadron. He expects to be transferred to a field in Idaho shortly.

Miss Patricia Jean Shumway of Watsonville, but a former resident of Campbell when her parents C. W. and the late Mrs. Shumway lived here, has joined the WAVES. She was one of a group of eight young women of the county who were sworn in recently.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hollon of Campbell, a boy, Emmett Dewayne, August 24, at O'Connor sanitarium.

Jack Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Smith, left Sunday morning for San Diego where he has entered the drafting department of the Consolidated Aircraft plant.

Arnold Grim who had not been home for two years made a surprise visit arriving in the wee small hours Saturday morning. He left again Wednesday reporting to Sacramento on a return flight east.

Mr. and Mrs. George Scott and daughter Ruth of Fresno stopped in Campbell Monday on their return from Oakland and visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Scott of 135 Harrison avenue. The senior Scotts came to Campbell this year and bought a home which they have remodelled. Mr. Scott, who is a carpenter and painter, had lived in Fresno for many years but came here directly from a year spent in Oregon in defense work.

Staff Sgt. Merlin Bohnett is home for two weeks on furlough from his army duties at Mather Field, Sacramento.

Mrs. W. H. Stray is entertaining group 3 of the Congregational Guild this afternoon, and incidentally observing her birthday.

Mrs. C. H. Lillingston who had been visiting in Los Angeles for several weeks has returned and taken a room at the home of Miss Winifred Grizzle.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mrs. O. A. Putnam. Call within a week at Press office.

A marriage license was issued Tuesday to William B. Mone, 18, of San Jose and Helen L. Rue, 19, of Campbell.

Timely Topic Enjoyed At Club Meeting

Campbell Kiwanis club met as usual Tuesday with Rev. Donald H. Baldwin chairman, presenting the speaker, Rev. Samuel J. Chaney of Los Gatos.

Taking as his subject "Goin' Fishin'" Rev. Chaney recounted many of his experiences in fishing in various parts of the country, many of them in remote and almost inaccessible places. He mentioned many familiar and famous places recognized by fishermen.

Lowell Benson of the United States Maritime Service, who was a visitor, told a few of his experiences so far in the service and stated that he liked it very much.

Other visitors were Lieut. Arnold Grim of the U. S. Air Force and Homer H. Hyde of the personnel department of Lockheed Aircraft company.

The chairman, who returned last week from a Montana visit, gave a short talk on his summer activities.

Next week Ross Trowbridge will preside and "War Pictures" will be shown by the Standard Oil company.

Sgt. Chamberlin Selected to Attend OCS

Tech. Sgt. Dean R. Chamberlin has been selected at the Carlsbad Army Air Field, Carlsbad, New Mexico, to attend officers candidate school for air forces administration at Miami Beach, Florida.

Sgt. Chamberlin, former teacher at Campbell high school first entered the service at Moffett Field and has also served at Las Vegas, Nevada.

Incorporation Considered at Chamber Meeting

The chamber of commerce met Tuesday evening at met Tuesday evening at which the question of incorporation was again considered, as there appears to be a growing sentiment in its favor, due especially to the need of police service.

Other matters of community interest were brought up for discussion.

Local People Stanford Donors

Chancellor Ray Lyman Wilbur announced today that Stanford University had received one million dollars in gifts during the fiscal year ending August 31, 1943.

More than 2500 persons from 45 states, 3 territories, and 4 foreign countries contributed to this year's total, which brought Stanford's gifts for the last three years to $4,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Cutting of Campbell were among the donors to Stanford this year.

$180,000 Is Quota For This Area In War Bond Drive

The captains of the various sections in the Campbell defense area met Wednesday evening to complete plans for the Third War Loan drive.

The quota for this area has been set at $180,000, which those in charge of the campaign know it will require the fullest cooperation of every individual to meet. It is hoped that the war news from Italy will be an incentive to everyone to dig a little deeper and have a part in bringing victory more speedily.

Within the next few days the Boy Scouts will deliver to each home a pamphlet explaining the various types of bonds, and beginning next week the block wardens will call and people are urged to be ready to make their pledges.

As these wardens are all busy people, if any one is to be away, kindly cooperate by contacting the warden, the area captain, W. N. Lloyd, or W. H. Van Dyke.

This is a big job, but one that has to be done, and those in charge ask the help of every one in putting it through quickly.

Mrs. Young Has Delightful Visit In the East

Mrs. Henry Young and her granddaughter, Joan Sanders, returned August 28 from a delightful visit with relatives in Eastern Canada, Portland, Maine, and New York City.

Leaving here the tenth of June they went east via Chicago, thence to Montreal and on to Salisbury, New Brunswick, where they were guests of Mrs. Young's brother, Chipman L. Taylor. Other sisters arrived to join in a family reunion, and on the return journey the travelers visited in the homes of these sisters in Portland and New York.

They found travel very crowded, but although accommodations were not of the best they were not seriously inconvenienced and were very happy to have been able to make the trip at all, which was possible only because of no apricot crop to harvest.

Indoor Picnic Held At Cramer Home

An indoor community picnic, with Mrs. E. R. Kennedy and Mrs. D. H. Cramer, hostesses at the latter's home, was enjoyed by a group of friends and relatives Wednesday evening.

Participants were Mrs. W. W. Wells and daughter, Diane; Mrs. Howard Lillingston and daughter, Pat; Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Bohnett; Mrs. Hattie Baugh, Mrs. C. H. Lillingston, Mrs. Lawrence Neville and children, Ryan and Lois Marie of San Jose; Mrs. Edna Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy and son, Neal and Mr. and Mrs. Cramer.

ADMISSION DAY

Ninety-three golden years stretch back along the horizon of history since California "joined up" on September 9, 1850.

But for all its fantastic beginnings and its prodigious development in those early days, not even the most imaginative dreamed that it would reach the heights it has attained today.

California's growth has been a combination of natural wealth and the ingenuity and energy of its people. The same daring spirit that prompted men to trek to the western wilderness has spurred the development and progress of the Golden State. Gold started the stampede to the West, but it was the fertility of the land that fed men when they got here, and gave to the state a stability and wealth that in the decades has far exceeded the original attraction.

It was as a "free" state that California came into the Union. On the Civil War, we fought to uphold the rights of all men to be free. Today we are in the forefront of a still greater battle for freedom that encircles the globe. Our great shipyards and aircraft factories, our farm and fields are turning out the weapons and the food needed to carry this great cause to victory.

It is especially fitting, therefore, that the Third War Loan Drive to raise more dollars to push this fight should be launched on California's birthday. Every Californian should celebrate the day with the purchase of more war bonds.

At ninety-three, California is coming into her prime. Ahead lies a golden future. As Queen of States may she long rule in hospitality, in abundance, and in progress.

SEPTEMBER 15 TAXES

By this time you should have received your income tax forms for the September 15 tax period. Everybody who filed an income tax report last March will get them, but not everybody will have to file now.

Best thing is to read the instructions carefully and see if they apply to you. If you find that you do have to report, start the necessary figuring right away. Don't wait until the last day or two.

Allow a full evening for your tax report, if you can. Yes, it is a nuisance, but the slight inconvenience we are put to in preparing our tax record is little enough to do toward the common cause.

Taxes are needed to finance the war—so pay them cheerfully. If you find them a bit hard on the pocketbook, then set up your own pay-as-you-go plan by putting aside a proportionate amount of your next tax payment each payday. Then when Uncle Sam calls again on December 15 you'll be ready.

Another helpful practice is to keep a simple record of any special income or expense that will affect your tax report.. Such information is handy when you have to "get down to brass tacks."

"FOOLS RUSH IN WHERE . . . "

Not all the brave have gone to war.

In a small New York town there is competition for the job of tax collector. The incumbent is a woman—a Republican. Here opponent—you'll never believe it—is her husband—a Democrat.

It seems to us that the husband is at a distinct disadvantage. How can he go out in public and talk against his wife — and get away with it? Furthermore, what chance has he in the campaign within the home—which we imagine goes on more or less constantly—since the wife always has the last word?

Anyway, it's all in the family—we hope.

SEND THEM BACK TO SCHOOL

With schools throughout California soon to reopen, the question arises: How many of the 'teen-age boys and girls now working will return to the classroom?

It is not easy to drop a well-paying job and go back to school. But it was never more important that this be done.

The contribution made to the war effort by our youth has been notable. They have helped to fill the yawning gaps in our industrial and agricultural armies. But that does not mean they should continue to work on a full-time basis. Let them work part-time and continue their education. The youngster who stays out of school for a year finds it hard to go back and swing into the routine of school life. Chances are, if he drops out, he won't return to school at all.

Lack of proper education is not all that results from the premature quitting of school. Another frequent effect is juvenile delinquency. According to educators, when the 'teen-ager finds himself with plenty of money and no school guidance, he tends to drift into anti-social activities and frequently into crime. School ties are doubly essential in these days when the home influence is weakened by the fact that in many instances both parents work and children are left largely on their own.

So send them back to school. Don't let them sell their future for the dollars they can earn now. It's worth much more than that. We cannot allow the urgent need of the moment to blind us to the greater basic need—the proper education and guidance of our youth.

OVERSEAS CHRISTMAS MAIL

Better start your Christmas shopping right now—especially if you're buying a gift for one of the boys overseas.

September 15 to October 15 is the period in which all Chirstmas packages are to be mailed to the soldiers on foreign soil. For sailors on foreign duty mail between September 15 and November 1.

Here are some of the rules to be followed: Packages should not be more than 15 inches in length or more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. Five pounds is the weight limit per package. Each package should be marked "Christmas parcel" and not more than one such parcel can be sent to the same individual in any one week.

Don't send perishable goods, intoxicants or inflammable materials—they're specifically prohibited.

Uncle Sam will have a huge task in distributing gifts to more than two million men scattered over the globe. So do your part. Follow instructions exactly. Then your gift will arrive on time.

THE MAN BECOMES THE LAW

Whether the coal mines are to remain in the hands of government or be returned to the private citizens who developed them, is apparently viewed as a question to be decided not upon a basis of simple justice, but rather upon Hitler's maxim that the end justifies the means. In this case, the alleged end is approximately 13,000,000 tons of coal a week. Until that end is achieved, property rights, as written into the law of the land, are mere scraps of paper—the same kind of scraps that governments have been tearing up for years.

As a matter of fact, even total war is a shabby excuse for evading laws which if properly administered would in no way hinder the war effort. The laws of this nation were designed to guard the life, liberty and property of every citizen. But we have torn up the laws relating to one class of property to appease one class of workers. Tomorrow, in the name of another emergency, the government may tear up more laws because the bureaucrats have found that it is far easier and more popular to tear them up than enforce them. The process will continue just as long as the people permit it. Eventually we will learn, as the Germans have that when a law is torn up a man takes its place—the man becomes the law.

Weddings Are Celebrated at Schwab Home

The Schwab home was again the scene of a celebration Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Luella Ryan invited in a few of her parents friends to honor the 61st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schwab which occurred six months ago.

Other special guests honored were Mrs. C. F. Stone of Cuperinto who celebrated her 90th birthday Sept. 8; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Whipple who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this month, Mr. and Mrs. James Jensen and Mr. F. D. Aucutt of Willow Glen, and Mrs. T. L. Hollingsworth of San Jose. All were presented with special cakes. It was regretted that Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ross and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Relfe of Campbell, who also have their 61st wedding anniversaries this month were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Mitchell of Willow Glen, and Mr. and Mrs. David Rutherford of Campbell, delighted the assembled guests with several vocal selections, among which was "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," the favorite of Mr. and Mrs. Schwab. All the guests related interesting events in their own lives.

The home was beautifully decorated with bouquets of zinnias, asters, snapdragons and fern by Mrs. H. Luke Warburton who also assisted Mrs. Ryan and son James of Treasure Island and Mrs. Nellie Rutherford in serving refreshments.

Other guests not previously mentioned were Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Wirtz and father W. W. Wirtz; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Cassingham, Mr. and Mrs. James Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, Mrs. R. Welsh, Mrs. H. M. Ogden and Mrs. Ida Robinson, all of San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. James Christensen, Mrs. Anna Sawyer, Mrs. Meta Rudy and Mrs. Ella Gallagher, of Campbell; Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Hansen and R. E. Streeter of Cupertino; Mrs. Carolyn Johnson, Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, Mrs. A. Copeland, Miss Jessie MacArthur, Mrs. Summerville and Mr. Warburton of Santa Clara; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Miners of Willow Glen; Mr. and Mrs. William Prestidge of Martinez; Mrs. M. E. Townsend of Merced; Mrs. M. E. Buerer of Aurora, Ill; G. P. Buerer of Oakdale and Harry W. Buerer of Escalon.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. Dan Yeager. Call within a week at Press office.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"God Is My Co-Pilot" by Col. Robert L. Scott.

A boy with a heavy southern accent, born in Georgia, seemingly was brought into this world with wings. But not angel's wings. Wings, in the beginning, made by his own two childish hands, which were replaced with more substantial man-made ones as time went by. From this autobiography, Colonel Scott has wanted to fly since the day he learned to identify persons and objects, and with that deep-seated and ever burning desire to fly eating at his heart, his ambitions materialized and won for him not only personal pride and satisfaction, but battles and honors for our country since Pearl Harbor.

This is a personal experience story, yet those personal experiences of the author have had strong and lasting effects on the world at war. Colonel Scott starts off by telling about his trials and errors in childhood, striving to learn to fly. And with his love for flying, supported by a determination solid as a rock, I do not believe anything under the sun could have kept him from flying.

Since the late 1920's he has been with the United States Army Air Force, subsequently bringing him early into the conflict when Japan hit us in the Pacific. To China he went —he joined General Chennault in his actions there and was in charge of flying operations under the General for some time.

"His story," says General Chennault in his foreword, "is a record of persistence, determination and courage from early boyhood."

Not alone does the author speak of his personal triumphs in the air, but he tells of many great fighter-pilots — men who are winning astounding victories against tremendous odds, keeping China's heart beating, keep-China in the war. They have never received such moving tributes, never been so vividly pictured, as in this narrative by their commanding officer. Many readers and reviewers of this book have acclaimed this tale one of the greatest war adventure stories ever written, and I heartily endorse the acclaim. Though the tales seem incredible, they show what men can do in war, and they go straight to the heart of the reader because they come modestly and with humor from a man who is both brave and generous. And they come from a man who holds deep in his own heart the belief he has expressed in the title of his book, the faith that his plane has carried an Unseen Co-Pilot who, when Scott needed help, has told him what to do.

Drug Store to Sell Lederle Products

Clark Drugs, popular pharmancy, now authorized distributor of well-known Lederle Veterinary Products.

Clark Drugs, East Campbell avenue, announces a new valuable service to farmers and stockmen of this county. This store, for the first time, has established a department for the sale of veterinary biologicals and pharmaceuticals made by the highly regarded Lederle Laboratories.

Never before has it been so important for farmers and stockmen to guard the health of their valuable animals, it is pointed out. The immunization of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, fowl, small animals, against disease costs but a trifle when compared with possible heavy losses of these animals through easily preventable infections.

The Lederle Laboratories, whose veterinary products the Clark Drugs now markets, is the largest maker of human and veterinary biologicals in the world. Each year, in the great Lederle laboratories, upwards of a million dollars are expended in research into human and animal diseases.

In the development of animal vaccines, serums, etc., Lederle is noted for its distinguished pioneering. Lederle perfected the first refined hog cholera serum, first introduced into this country an effective rabies prophylactic, developed Anthrax Spore vaccine (Carbazoo), was first to obtain government permission to produce an effective swine erysipelas serum and, comparatively recently, perfected Equine Encephalomyelitis (Chick-Embryo Method) which stopped the nationwide epizootic of sleeping sickness among horses in 1938.

Chest Campaign Gets Under Way

The Campbell Community and War Chest campaign has been organized under the leadership of Mrs. George E. Jeffers.

The house to house solicitation will be made in October but there will be some solicitations previous to that time.

This year the county is organized in a United campaign for a three fold purpose—services to Armed Forces, United Nations Relief, and local organizations and relief.

Lt. Keesling "First Pilot"

Lt. Walter Reynold Keesling, Campbell, today had completed nine weeks of intensive four-engine bomber training and as a member of the first class of student officers to graduate at Liberal Army Air Field, Kansas, won his certificate as "first pilot" ready to command the crew of a giant B-24 Liberator.

Lt. Keesling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Keesling, was a machinist in civilian life, and is a graduate of Campbell high school and a former student at San Jose State college. He received his flight training at Coleman and Goodfellow fields in Texas and was awarded his wings and commission at Ellington Field, Texas in June of this year.

Now ready to move on to a tactical unit for assignment to work battlefronts, Lt. Keesling is rated an expert in every phase of the huge B-24, from flying blind in the most difficult weather conditions to repairing its intricate machinery.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hancock. Call within a week at Press office.

CORRECTION

We sincerely regret that through misinformation which we had reason to think was authoritative, an erroneous article appeared in our last issue regarding the status of pre-war fathers.

That there was wide-spread misunderstanding of the questionnaire which pre-war fathers of draft age have been receiving is evidenced by the numerous explanations that have been made over the radio and in the daily papers.

Misunderstanding arose from the interpretation of a paragraph in the letters received by pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, in which the pronoun "this" referred to a reclassification card and not to the letter in hand.

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Once there was a throbbing battlecry of "Votes for Women" which electrified the Nation—and women's suffrage was born and became an American reality!

That bitterly-contested issue has long since been resolved, but it will have its modern counterpart, when Congress reconvenes, in a new fervent battlecry of "Votes for Soldiers," which seems destined to shake the rafters of the Capitol and be heard around the world, wherever American fighting men are serving.

Behind the scenes in Washington, there is already a tempest brewing on the soldiers' vote question—and one of the two Democratic champions of votes for the men in service, Senator Green of Rhode Island, appears to be backing away from his own bill, which was introduced before the congressional recess.

But Republicans, it is reliably reported, are determined to pick up the ball if the Democrats drop it, and will push for action on some practical, fraud-proof system of registering the men overseas —and arranging for them to cast their ballots in the presidential elections.

There are many tough, practical problems to be overcome, but the GOP'ers believe they can be handled. For example, Elmer Davis of the OWI, when he returned from abroad, indicated he was concerned over how the men could familiarize themselves with the election issues. He then came up with the suggestion that Lt. Gen. Somervell furnish the boys with election information. But inasmuch as Lt. Gen. Somervell is one of the few pronounced New Dealers in the Army command, that suggestion is bound to draw Republican fire.

Another headache is how the men can be registered and voted. The Army has objected to the use of V-Mail for this purpose on the seemingly legitimate ground that this would destroy the secrecy of the ballot—and might open the door to wholesale vote frauds.

Still another sticking-point is that all mail sent home by service men is subject to censor—and that, too, would invade the secrecy of the ballot box, unless censorship regulations were relaxed in this instance.

Before last year's elections Congress provided a means for balloting by soldiers, but nothing much came of it because of an asserted shortage of shipping space to carry the ballots. With that in mind, Congress, this year, is determined to provide a fool-proof system—and to see that it is placed in operation. But there is also underground opposition to the movement, apparently stemming from the fact that some of the political chieftains in Washington are fearful of the soldiers' votes and would like to see them sidetracked.

How it will come out nobody knows. But one thing you can be sure of: "Votes for Soldiers" will be one of the hottest issues on the legislative calendar when Congress gets back to work

'Doughgirls" In San Jose Sept. 19

"The Doughgirls" come to the civic auditorium, San Jose direct from its two-month run at the Geary Theater, San Francisco, giving a single performance on Sunday evening, Sept. 19. Walter Winchell said of this racy, saucy lampoon of present-day life in Washington, "The funniest show I have seen in three years." "Doughgirls" is still running in New York and in Chicago, and the company now on the coast could easily run months longer in San Francisco, were it not committed to Portland, Seattle, and several other cities.

Joy Hodges, blonde beauty, heads the four smart, slick "Doughgirls" who bring their tangled love affairs to Washington's diplomats and army officers. Miss Hodges has attained prominence in theater, films, radio and music comedy. She made her New York debut in George M. Cohan's "I'd Rather Be Right" a few years ago.

Tickets for "Doughgirls" are on sale at the auditorium box office, Columbia 7087.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith. Call within a week at Press office.

Jack Anderson Leaves Saturday For Washington

Congressman Jack Anderson, this district's representative in Washington, will take to the airlanes Friday night, Sept. 10, in a farewell broadcast to citizens of the district. Saturday he will leave for the reconvening of Congress in the nation's capitol.

In his radio talk Friday night, which will be heard over station KQW between 9:00 and 9:15 o'clock, the Congressman will discuss the Smith-Connelly Anti-Strike Bill, and the threat of labor leaders to purge every member of the Congress who voted for it. Anderson, who claims loyal support of the laboring man in his fight for just consideration, said today he will have some pertinent things to reveal in his broadcast.

"The threat oflabor big wigs, who live luxuriously on the sweat of the working man's brow," Anderson declared, "to purge members of Congress is an insult to American intelligence and integrity, which I do not believe the American people will tolerate, nor soon forget. When Congress becomes the tool of a minority, then democracy is dead."
